

Legal Priorities
Project

Legal Priorities Summer Institute 2022

_September 3 — 8/

The Legal Priorities Summer Institute (LPSI) is an intensive, week-long program with the goal of introducing altruistically-minded law and policy students to projects, theories, and tools relevant to tackling critical issues affecting the long-term future.

→ legalpriorities.org/institute22.html

The conference looks to include presentations and workshops led by

- Global leaders in government and international relations, including organizations working with the United Nations;
- Academics and researchers contributing to our understanding of global governance, prioritization of global public goods, and sources of catastrophic and existential risks (with a focus on transformative AI, biosecurity & pandemic preparedness, nuclear war, and climate change);
- Legal practitioners developing novel theories to protect future generations in domestic and international courts;
- Philanthropists funding projects to protect future generations; and
- Members of the judiciary with insight on relevant paradigms in international and domestic law.

This programming will be complemented by practical career advising to help law students explore job opportunities and network with potential employers and partners working toward protecting our collective future.

Conference Details

---

Dates	September 3 - 8, 2022
Location	Oxford, UK
Participants	Up to 40
Eligibility	Current law students; recent law grads; related programs (see website for more details)
Funding	Participation stipend: $2,500 Travel + lodging + food: Provided

---

The Organizers

The Legal Priorities Project is an independent, global think tank founded by researchers at Harvard University. We conduct and support foundational legal research and develop legal strategies to tackle the world's most pressing problems. This currently leads us to focus on mitigating existential risk and promoting the flourishing of future generations. Our research is influenced by the principles of effective altruism and the longtermism paradigm.

Legal Priorities Project